Dear Sir,

I have just started another Law Publication entitled 'The Lawyer's Reference', a copy whereof I have the pleasure to send, herewith, for favor of your perusal.

The plan and the aims and objects of the Compilation are fully set out in the 'Preface' and the 'Instructions to the Reader'.

Without detaining you long, I request you will be so kind as to peruse the Publication at your leisure and favor me with your valuable suggestions towards its improvement and with an expression of your opinion on the merits of the Compilation.

Thanking you in anticipation

I remain,

Dear Sir,

Yours faithfully,

T. V. Sanjiva Row
